About the Author

Laura Ballerini is a seasoned graphic designer with a degree in Visual Communications and over forty years of working in the industry. Ballerini has experienced the many facets of art, design and communications over the decades. Having worked for a big-city newspaper, a leading Advertising Agency, and currently running her own design boutique, BluBrown Communications Inc., Laura has honed her skills to merge writing and visual design into one. (BluBrown is named after her two daughters; one with blue eyes and one with brown eyes—the concept was to always look at design through the fresh eyes of a child—and always asking ‘why?’)

Laura lives in Calgary, Alberta with her husband, two daughters, one son-in-law, a granddaughter, and a pretentious cat named Gooey.

The Green Velvet Chair is Laura's first book.
